United States goods are favorably known in Mexico, it is stated, but in certain lines, such as dry goods, hats, shoes, notions and men's and women's furnishings, our exporters seem to have made prestically no attempt to gain more fully realizing that they must accommodate themselves to the wants and peculiarities of the Mexicans, and ports from the United States are advancing yearly, in spite of trade depression. In Guatemala, United States machinery is highly appreciated, though its delicacy will not admit of the ignorant handling of the Indian laborer universal to the country. Three-fourths of the imports of Honduras come from the United States.

In Jamaica the United States has supplanted England in many lines of the mountain, but we thought we were safe. No slide had ever touched that spot.

"I have looked over the ground since, and I know just how it happened, but it was more than a surprise that night when part of an avalanche slopped over from the gulch on our right. We were just setting to sleep when we heard that infernal crack and boom and roar right above us, and smashi bang! and away down the gulch it went with half the assay office. Took the furnace and our fire and all the roof, and just left us lying there in the snow with our bedding. And scared! That's when may hair get up and stood on end, and has never laid down peaceably since. Two or three trees away up the mountain had just cut off a slice of the slide that filled the gulch, and had turned it over into the little gulch where our assay office stood. That's what caused our wreck.

"Well, we held a council right quick, dug up a lot of matches and some candles and after we saw what had been done to our house we declared we couldn't stay there any more. We took our blankets and candles and matches, an old sheet iron stove and an old canvas tent and moved up to the big mill fifty feet up the side of the mountain. We climbed to the crushing room, near the top of the mill. There we put up our tent to keep out the draft all we could. Then we nailed a comforter overhead, got the stove to going and fixed up pretiy comfortable. We were still scared half to death, for we could hear every little while slides going down the mountain, some near by, some so far we could only hear the roar.

"Then we got to teiling stories. Purdy was an old mule skinner and he used to the shoe lace he made $2,500,000, and the ordinary umbrella benefited six people by as much as $10,000,000. The Howard patent for bolling sugar in vacuo proved a lucrative investment for the capitalists who were able to remunerate the inventor on a colossal scale. It is estimated that his income averaged between $200,000 and $250,000 per annum.

Then we got to teiling stories. Purdy was an old mule skinner and he used to teil the most blood-curdling stories I ever heard. He wouldn't hurt a fiea, but according to his tales he had killed and skinned at least forty Iudians. He was telling us about an Indian fight, and he had just killed two reds and was skinning them when Kane, who had been trying to see out at the window fell inside on the floor and yelled:
"My God, boys, here comes one from above!"

reached a total of 143,000,000, which realized profits of $1,150,000 for the year. The lady who invented the modern baby carriage enriched herself to the extent of $50,000, and a young lady living at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, devised the simple tollet requisite known as the "Mary Anderson" curling iron, from which she derives royalites amounting to $500 a year. It was the wife of a clergyman who designed an improvement for the corset and made a fortune out of it. The gimlet-pointed screw, the idea of a little girl, brought many millions of dollars to the clever inventor. Miss Knight, a young lady of excellent talents, was gifted with wonderful mechanical powers, as will be seen by the complicated mechanism of her machine for making paper bags, We are told she refused $50,000 for it shortly after taking out the patent. "Yurdy commenced praying for forgiveness for being so mean to the Indians, and the rest of us were too scared to speak or move. The slide came down from behind the mill and hit the bottom of the gulch with a roar worse than anything I ever imagined. It slid part way up the side of the other mountain, slewed around and started down off the creek gulch, tearing out the whole lower half of the mill, boilers, engines, ten of the stamps, and the whole blessed works.
